What we offer

We produce a range of authentic artefacts and resources which are written to meet the needs of the primary national curriculum. The complete range can be used to create a Global Learning Lounge or a Global Hub. Alternatively teachers can choose individual packs from particular countries, or even single items to support that special one-off lesson. The resources can enhance geography lessons, create global citizenship experiences, and relate to the articles in Rights Respecting assemblies.

How will this help your pupils?

Each artefact, photograph, or article has been selected to bring to life the stories of people who live in different places. "Using artefacts in the classroom can be a powerful means of bringing cultures alive, stimulating learners' curiosity, creativity, and powers of observation and detection" Oxfam. Global learning and awareness increases the skills of co-operation, rights respecting, justice and fairness. The materials supplied allow the teacher to teach with authority, to challenge stereotypes and develop the child's own inherent values and perceptions. Our resources will create a stimulating start, engender exploratory discussion, and build knowledge to create memorable lessons for your pupils.

The children will want to explore the artefacts, engage with the photographs, read the newspapers and become informed and curious global citizens. Ofsted Subject-Specific Guidance noted that the quality of teaching in outstanding schools "offered a range of innovative resources, especially those linked to topical issues, which were used regularly and effectively to explore a wide range of topics".
